c. The Kingdom of God must be preached to the dead
31. Jesus said to another who said they would follow Him but first they must tell their family goodbye:
" _____ having put his hand to the _____, and _____ back is fit for the _____"

Barnes Notes Luke 9:62

No man, having put his hand ... - To put one's hand to a plow is a proverbial expression to signify undertaking any type of task or work. In order that a plowman may accomplish his work, it is necessary to look onward - to be intent on his work - not to be looking back with regret that he undertook it. So in following Jesus, He that follows must do it with his whole heart, He that comes still loving the world - still looking with regret on its pleasures, its wealth, and its honors - that has not "wholly" forsaken them as his portion, cannot be a Converted Christian, and is not fit for the kingdom of God. How searching is this test to those who profess to be True Christians! He that would enter heaven must come with a heart full of love to God; giving "all" into his hands, and prepared always to give up all his property, his health, his friends, his body, his soul to God, when he demands them, or he cannot be a True Converted Christian. True Faith in Jesus is everything or nothing. He that is not willing to sacrifice "everything" for the cause of God, is really willing to sacrifice nothing.

+++++
Matthew 7:13-14 Go in through the narrow gate, for wide is the gate and broad is the way that leads to destruction, and many there are who go in through it. Because narrow is the gate and constricted is the way which leads to life, and there are few who find it.

Barnes Notes Mat 7:13-14

Enter ye in at the strait gate - Christ here compares the way to life to an entrance through a gate. The words "straight" and "strait" have very different meanings. The former means "not crooked;" the latter, "pent up, narrow, difficult to be entered." This is the word used here, and it means that the way to heaven is "pent up, narrow, close," and not obviously entered. The way to death is open, broad, and thronged. The Saviour here referred probably to ancient cities. They were surrounded with walls and entered through gates. Some of those, connected with the great avenues to the city, were broad and admitted a throng; others, for more private purposes, were narrow, and few would be seen entering them. So, says Christ, is the path to heaven. It is narrow. It is not "the great highway" that people tread. Few go there. Here and there one may be seen - traveling in solitude and singularity. The way to death, on the other hand, is broad. Multitudes are in it. So, says Christ, "diligence" is needed to enter life. All must strive, to obtain it; and so narrow, unfrequented, and solitary is it, that few find it. This sentiment has been beautifully versified by Watts:

"Broad is the road that leads to death,
And thousands walk together there;
But wisdom shows a narrower path,
With here and there a traveler
